GRAY WILL FIGHT FOR ELECTION.

HE ABANDONS HOPE OF WINNING BY THE OFFICIAL COUNT AND WILL GO TO COURT.

John M. Gray, the Democratic candidate for Register, has abandoned all hopes of being elected by the official count and will carry the matter to the courts. This was announced by his counsel after the adjournment yesterday of the Board of Canvassers. The completed figures of twenty wards have been made. The official returns show an increase in eight votes over the majority of 305 votes as shown by the figures collected by his attorney, Bert Reis

It was shown yesterday that there are 1,431 void votes, 393 protested ballots, and that in 171 election districts envelopes were enclosed in the returns which are suppored to contain ballots. There is nothing on the outside of the envelopes which would suggest what they contain. At any rate, the Democrats hug each other in facuous giee and de-clare that these envelopes contain ballots for Gray. At any rate, the counsel for Mr. Gray will apply to the courts for a writ of mandamus to have these envelopes opened. Ex-Judge Tighe, who admits that on the face of the returns Howe has a major-ity of three hundred, declares that the Democratic organization intends to fight the matter out in the courts in behulf of Gray. The Republicans say that they will meet the Democrats upon every phase of the case, and are not a whit fearful of the threat that the matter will be taken into the courts. Democrats hug each other in fatuous glee and de

A CHURCH CORNERSTONE LAID.

ST. JAMES'S NEW BUILDING, IT IS HOPED, WILL BE COMPLETED BY EASTER DAY.

The cornerstone laying for the new St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church took place yesterday afternoon at Lafayette-ave, and St. James Place. will be a beautiful structure of Norman-Gothic architecture

At the services yesterday the Rev. Dr. C. W. Homer, the rector of the church, presided, and in the absence of Bishop Littlejohn laid the corner stone. An address to the people was made by the Rev. Dr. McConnell, rector of Trinity Church and Archdeacon of the Northern District of Brooklyn. The exercises were brief, and the service followed was that of the Episcopal Church, slightly modi-

The building is expected to cost between $60,000 and $70,000, and, it is hoped, will be completed by Easter Day, April 15. The Ransom course work will be used in the construction. It has the appearance of real stone, and is with difficulty to be detected. The interior will be in the form of a cross, and will be highly ornamented and finished in amber tones. The auditorium will be 135 by 93 feet, with the main entrance on the corner, and will seat 750 persons. The chapel, at the side of the chancel beyond the western transept, will accommodate about one hundred persons, and will be entered from St. James Place. The doors and windows will be handsomely moulded, and all the fittings will be of the most modern style.

SHERIFF AND FEDERAL OFFICIALS.

THE GRAND JURY CONSIDERING CERTAIN ACTS ' IN REGARD TO AN ILLICIT STILL.

It was learned yesterday that the United States Grand Jury had been investigating certain actions of Sheriff Creamer and Deputy Sheriff O'Donnell. They are charged with having interfered with the Federal authorities. It appears that after the confiscation of an alleged illicit distillery, the property of Louis Huessner, at No. 2.781 Atlantic-ave., by the Federal officials, and after a deputy collector had Federal officials, and after a deputy collector had been left in charge. Deputy Sheriff O'Donnell and another deputy sheriff appeared with a writ of replevin, secured by Jacob Gottschalf, of Manhattan, against Huessner. The deputy collector retain, against Huessner. The deputy collector refused to give up the property, it is said, and complained of the interference to Collector Moore. According to Sheriff Creamer, the seizure of the property was in obeyance to a Supreme Court order, and the watchman made no protest.

BIG DAMAGES AGAINST THE CITY.

COUNTY CLERK SAFFEN'S WIDOW GETS A VER-DICT FOR $76,597 50.

Mrs. Eliza A. Saffen, the widow and administratrix of County Clerk Henry C. Saffen, is entitled to $76,697 50 in her suit against the city of New-York. according to the decision of Herbert T. Ketchum, the referee. Yesterday Hugo Hirsch, her counsel, moved before Justice Marean, of the Supreme Court, for an extra sum of $2,000. The claims of the plaintiff are based on a special act passed in 1895, which provided that the County Clerk should rearrange certain papers and receive a fee of 50 cents a paper. Also for filing papers and for examining and arranging them the Clerk was to be entitled to "just and reasonable compensation." Mr. Saffen began the work in June, 1895. He was compelled to hire additional men. They were paid widow for the work done in his lifetime and by his widow for the work done subsequently. He was paid by the city of Brooklyn fees amounting to $57.78 62. In addition there were 153.195 papers assorted for which no compensation had been granted. It is on these 153.195 papers that the present claim is based.

The fundamental content is the present claim. by him for the work done in his lifetime and by his

A MUSEUM FOR CHILDREN.

NATURAL HISTORY COLLECTIONS AR-RANGED FOR YOUNG STUDENTS.

IT WILL BE KNOWN AS THE BEDFORD PARK BRANCH OF THE BROOKLYN INSTITUTE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES.

An entirely new departure in the provision of educational advantages is about to be made in Brooklyn by the opening of a museum that has for its object the consideration of children's interests in the pursuit of information concerning the natu ral world. It is asserted that this new museum will be the first to so arrange its collection as to bring it easily within the comprehension of the young and make it possible for them to ursue alone and understandingly their investigations in geology, mineralogy, botany and natural history

Dr. Call, who is in charge of the collections, when explaining the plan to be carried out in this build-ing, which will be known as the Bedford Park Branch of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and

This will be primarily a type museum. There will be specimens of all the greatest groups of animals and plants, and they will be placed in cases so that each case will be complete in itself, and the development of the species, plant or animal, may be traced by even a child.

The system carried out will be similar in certain points to that followed in the Agassiz Museum at Cambridge, but that which will render the collection valuable for the immature student will be the manner of its labelling. G. B. Good, of the United States Museum at Washington, is quoted as having said that the best museum was one con sisting of an excellent system of labelling, with specimens to match. On this principle the labels for the type museum for children will give in every case the commonly known names of plants and animals, and make the scientific name of secondary importance. This will be another means of simplifying for children the tedium of investiga-

LOCAL SPECIMENS TO BE SHOWN.

There will be certain things to guide them in the beginning of their search. For example, a case will be labelled "Ways That Nature Takes to Distribute Seeds of Plants," In that case there will be found specimens, mounted on cardboard, of many kinds of seeds of wild and cultivated plants. Beneath them are pasted typewritten names the common name first, the scientific name followingand the different stages of the development of the plant are shown on different cards down to the condition when it is ready to become the plaything of the wind. In this way each case will tell a story in itself.

Still another new thing about the Bedford Park Museum will be the collection there shown of ant mais, plants and minerals peculiar to the neighod. Long Island in particular will be represented by all sorts of natural specimens. No other museum in America has made a special object in showing the flora and fauna of its own district. In England the museums at Leeds, Manchester and Hull have carried out this idea to a certain extent, but they, on the other hand, have done nothing to make their collections popular for chil-

Besides showing merely the natural specimens there are to be exhibited at the Bedford Park Museum samples of all the industries of Brooklyn and New-York. For instance, a gas plant will be demonstrated. Not only will coal and coke be exhibited, but the products of these, and photographs of each part of the machinery used in the manufacture of gas, the retorts and scrubbers, will be facture of gas, the retorts and scrubbers, will be strated are glassmaking, from manufacture, the cork oak itself to be shown, and leather work which will be traceable from and leather work which will be traceable from the aringal shown as a stuffed specimen, through Geography and history will be grouped together and will begin with models of the human race. These models have not yet arrived from France, but are expected before the time for the opening of the building. All the models, both botanical and anatomical, are of the best and newest designs. They are capable of division for dissecting purposes. The botanical models are colossal, are beautifully colored, and so cunningly put together that Nature herself is rivalled in all except delicacy of texture.

A COMPLETE WEATHER SERVICE.

The meteorological department will be especially fine. A complete weather service will be carried on. An instrument for registering wind velocity is in the building now, ready to be put in place. It will be kept in constant operation, and there will be explanatory labels. The Government has furnished the museum with all the weather charts showing the rain and snow fall, ice register and various atmospheric phenomena. Within a few weeks a course of twelve lectures on meteorology will be given to teachers, and after the opening teachers will be allowed to bring classes to the museum and there lecture to them, using any of the appliances and specimens to be found in the building. It will be necessary only to inform Dr. Call that the lecture room will be wanted, and what subject will be treated. The seats and tables will always be ready, and the specimens needed will be placed in position. There will be a stereoption that can also be used when needed. It has been the object of those in charge to obtain all possible appliances for teaching the branches now followed in the schools, and as in each department of science there are selected collections of specimens, each group has a distinctive end.

This may be illustrated in the exhibit of minerals of the rock kind. Case No. 1 contains specimens of crystalline forms, No. 2, rock forming minerals; No. 3, rocks formed from minerals; No. 4, rocks, and No. 5, economic rock, building and constructive material. The collection of fossils is striking, and will win the interest of even the indifferent by the title given the department. It reads, "Development of Life on the Earth."

Every fortnight the nature of the exhibit throughout the building will be changed. For two weeks becames and charts will show the flora A COMPLETE WEATHER SERVICE

ment. It reads, "Development of Life on the Earth."

Every fortnight the nature of the exhibit throughout the building will be changed. For two weeks betanical specimens and charts will show the flora of one region of the world; following this will be shown the corresponding fauna, and the models and charts will deal entirely with that department. Then the mineral or geological aspect of the same region will be shown, and, this order being followed for different sections, will give constant and interesting change of subject.

It is thought that the museum will be opened next week. It will be free to the public. Situated as it is in one of the prettiest of Brooklyn's small parks, it is an attractive feature of that section. Hedford Park is in Brooklyn-ave, between Park Place and Prospect Place. It was formerly private property, and the building now used for the museum and the nublic library was a commodious dwelling house. JAMES P. HOWATTS DEATH. The employes of the steam engineering department of the Brooklyn Navy Yard at a meeting held on Friday night passed resolutions of regret on the death of James P. Howatt, the master mechanic of

of the Christmas Tree Society:

The Brooklyn Christmas Tree Society had a meeting for its Doll Committee vesterday at the Clarendon, where Mrs. Sittig made an appeal to the women to further secure the aid of their friends—of every one interested in this charity. Christmas is drawing near, and three thousand dolis must be dressed. Mrs. Delaney, of No. 304 Halsey-st., and Miss Alice J. Post, of No. 10 Arlington Place, will hold sewing bees at their homes, and Miss Minnie Hyde, of No. 421 Gold-st., offers her parlors for sewing circles twice during the next six weeks. Doll dressing material must be obtained. A line to the secretary, Florence L. Hart, No. 378 Jefferson-ave., will insure the dolls being sent to whoever is willing to dress them, after which they will be collected. Leonard Moody offers to have the biggest tree the country affords brought here at his own expense; it will be at least fifty feet high. Mr. Heaman, of Hyde & Heaman, has given his theatre for Christmas morning, and will provide the entertainment. Dolls can be obtained of Leonard Moody, at the same address. the department. The resolutions were sent to Mr. Howart's family. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Mark's Church, in Adelphi-st. U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R., of which Mr. Howatt was commander at one time, and Longton Lodge, F. and A. M., will command the commander of the commande
